

I cannot support this petition as it partially maintains the status quo by retaining the Morse code requirement. While the justification for doing so is certainly laudable, the protection of existing merchant stocks of study materials, code tapes and CDs is hardly an appropriate justification for maintaining the requirement for testing skill at an archaic modulation method.